FEMALE MINGQI SPIRIT ATTENDANT

$480

Tang dynasty, China • China • Ceramic • Collection #CESB046

W: 3.0" D: 2.75" H: 9.75"

Molded of earthenware, this petite sculpture is a type of centuries-old burial figurine known as míngqì. Such model figures were placed in tombs of individuals with high status to ensure a safe journey to the afterlife. Meant to depict the pleasures of daily life, common burial figures were warriors, dancers, male and female figures and animals. This míngqì is of a court lady wearing a flowing robe and her hair in a high bun, one of the typical hairstyles popular during the Tang dynasty. Continued...
