FOOTED OFFERING BOWL WITH COURTLY GATHERING

$580

c. 1850 • China • Porcelain • Collection #CFC070

W: 11.0" D: 9.0" H: 3.5"

This colorful porcelain bowl dates to the mid-19th century and was originally used as a serving dish for ritual offerings, placed before a home altar and piled high with fruit, baked goods, and other foods. The cartouche-shaped dish features a short footed base decorated by a pattern of crashing waves and a flared lip decorated in gilt. The exterior is painted with a gathering of robed figures in a courtyard setting, each holding a different auspicious flower, including lotus for purity, plum blossoms for longevity, and chrysanthemums for endurance.
