GLAZED SOY VESSEL

H: 10.25" Dia: 9.5"

As though slicked with oil, a thick blue-black glaze spills over the high shoulders and arched strap handles of this tapered kitchen vessel. The 19th-century ceramic jar was once used to prepare and store soy sauce in a Qing-dynasty kitchen, as evidenced by its interior glaze. With rich tonality, the lustrous dark glaze gives the jar a glassy appearance and drips beautifully over the unfinished round base.
