Chinese knotted tassels are used to add elegance to everyday items and bring good fortune wherever they're placed. Fine tassels hold sentimental value, and are often passed down through generations or gifted as a token of one's love.

This long tassel is hand-knotted of a dark brown silk cord, contrasted by red and pale pink threads. Two large endless knots flank a central ring of dark jade, reminiscent of a miniature bi disc. Draped from cabinet hardware or hanging from a handbag, we love these silk tassels as a way to spread good luck.
