MYTHICAL PROTECTORS FINIAL

$980

c. 1900 • Northern China, China • Cast Iron • Collection #BJGG015

W: 7.25" D: 3.25" H: 11.0"

This cast iron sculpture is an architectural finial that originally topped a Qing-dynasty building in northern China. The decorative fragment depicts two auspicious qilin, mythical Chinese creatures thought to bring luck and protection. Qilin are often depicted with lion-like features, though with the head of a dragon, hooves of a deer, and full, feathery tails. Divine and peaceful creatures, qilin are believed to be benevolent protectors of those with good intentions. Continued...

These two qilin are shown playing with an embroidered ball, a motif comparable to dragons fighting over the flaming pearl of supremacy.
