This pair of 19th century black lacquer stools was created by an artisan from northern China using traditional mortise-and-tenon joinery techniques. The stools feature straight legs ending in hoofed feet, joined by gentle humpback stretchers. The clean lines of the black lacquer frames are contrasted by hand-woven rattan tops, lending the stools a timeless rustic appeal. This versatile pair is the perfect addition to the home as a set of stools, side tables, or display stands.
