PUDDINGSTONE TRAY TABLE

$1,280

Northern China, China • Steel, Conglomerate Stone • Collection #MMM138I

W: 16.0" D: 12.0" H: 20.5"

This minimalist side table is topped with a small oval tray carved from brown puddingstone, a type of conglomerate stone named for its resemblance to a fruit-studded dessert. Historically, puddingstone was favored for its captivating natural appearance and used by Chinese scholars as an ideal tabletop surface on which to place scrolls for painting. Elevated by a custom steel base, the oval tray becomes a versatile side table.
