GLAZED STONEWARE JAR

$1,480

c. 1850 • Northern China, China • Materials, Ceramic • Collection #CAB034

H: 19.25" Dia: 14.0"

In 19th-century China jars like this would have held wines, foods, and other consumable items. The combination of an irregular surface with a subtle ridged pattern along the side gives this tall vessel an understated sculptural presence. Spots of the vessel's terracotta form peeks through the crazed, earth-tone glaze to provide a unique texture rich with character.
